So, why did y'all feel like it was necessary to steal from an old man going through medical issues? You're all gross and I'll make sure to never, ever step foot in your shop and I'll also make sure to never, ever recommend you :) i work in a used book store that also sells legos, I absolutely can and will bad-mouth you to any and everyone that asks.

Regards from Ben!

The police interactions shown in the Reckless Ben investigation involving American Fork PD raised serious concerns for me about possible misconduct, abuse of authority, and lack of accountability. So far, another call this morning. No threats from this user, but definitely defaming to corporate in general, and Ammon specifically.

Phone number: (209) 981-227

Shows as a Verizon Cell phone linked to one Carol Bailey, but another male voice on the call. In this case, they first asked about buying policies. I gave my standard spiel about "make an appointment, I calculate what they are likely to sell for, I pay out 40+% in cash, closer to 60% in store credit if in flawless condition." They then started talking about how Corporate lies, Corporate steals, and we should really violate our agreement or "that Ammon con man will steal your life savings too". He said he was instructed to "... make sure all stores and all customers know that none of the contracts are valid and the fraud will stop."

I did some further research on the phone number and the woman attached to it. I think I found the actual perpetrator of the call.

Daniel James Stuckenberg is associated with the registered owner, and his last known address is in Atascadero CA. Too far to actually come to our store, but he has put his face and voice all over videos of his knife making and the voice and diction both match what my staff member and I heard through the phone. There are very limited records of Daniel outside of his significant online presence, indicating he is at least a candidate to try and pull some vigilante crap on a borrowed family cell phone over this long weekend.

The registered owner of the phone number is Siobhan Meghan Stuckenberg, and it appears that she and Daniel are likely siblings, children of a James Arthur Stuckenberg, though the family appears to be larger and more spread out than just the three of them. Siobhan has had some significant moving about, bankruptcy, and foreclosures in her past, but I can't tie her name directly to Ben Ben Schneider, Chrystal Law-Gorman, or any of the known names in this entire situation.

Direct ties, or just inspired by the hate campaign, either way it is unacceptable. I would greatly prefer that things become extremely uncomfortable for them because our VOIP system is pretty good at uncovering if the call is being spoofed. Not perfect, but there's a high probability it originated from the cell phone Siobhan registered, but the caller was definitely male and with the same tenor as Daniel. I wish California allowed 1 party recording...

From phone number (417) 529-1199

At 5:59 Pacific, we received a call from a man who refused to identify himself asking for a manager. Staff member Josh answered and put him on hold while I (Dylan Anderson writing) was finishing up a buy. Three minutes in, I was able to answer and he started yelling about stealing from old folks. He claims he is going to be bringing down "a group of friends" within the hour to "Fix it" or make sure our store can no longer operate.

The police have been notified, and are on standby incase anyone does show up. All staff has read the guidelines previously put out, but I will not allow any potentially violent people to be in my store. My quick background on the phone number shows Siobhan Meghan Stuckenberg as the registered owner of the phone, but it was definitely a male voice, with tone and timber consistent with 30's or 40's. Please advise.
